FILIPINOS ELECT THEIR FIRST LEGISLATURE TODAY

Initial Step Toward Self Government That Was Promised By Roosevelt Through Taft.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., July 30.—Today's election in the Philippine Islands marks the first formal step towards Filipino self government. Naturally enough the administration officials here are keenly interested in the conduct and result of the election, which is for the choice of members of the first Philippine assembly, and for provincial governors, members of provincial boards, municipal presidents, vice presidents and municipal councilors, are to hold office for two years and to assume their duties upon the 1st of January next. The municipal councilors are to hold office for four years.
The Philippine assembly is the result of the promise of President Roosevelt made to the Filipinos through Secretary Taft to give the people of the island a measure of self government, conditional upon their good behavior for a term of two years. The assembly is to be given all the legislative powers heretofore exercised by the Philippine commission in all that part of the archipelago not inhabited by Moros or non-Christian tribes.
The assembly is to be composed of eighty-one members, apportioned on the basis of one delegate for each 90,000 of population, and provision is made to increase this number, but the total number of delegates cannot exceed 100. The body may be compared in a general way to the American house of representatives, while the Philippine commission will be the upper house or senate, and the acts of the assembly must secure the approval of the commission in order to become laws. The first assembly will convene early in October, when Secretary of War Taft will be present to witness the proceedings.

KNOCKED DOWN BY HORSE ON STREET

Mrs. Benjamin Bleasdale Had Narrow Escape From Serious Injury Last Evening.

At the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets about half-past eight last evening, Mrs. Benjamin Bleasdale had a narrow and lucky escape from serious injuries which might even have been fatal. In company with her nephew, J. R. Bleasdale of the town of Center, and his daughter she was crossing the street when she turned about to see that the child was following safely and was struck by a horse attached to a rig coming down East Milwaukee street. She was knocked to the pavement and rendered unconscious, but regained her senses almost immediately. Mr. Bleasdale and George King carried her into the People's Drug store and as soon as she recovered from the fright the former took her home on the streetcar. Mrs. Bleasdale's injury was a slight scalp wound that will probably have no serious result.

Charles Blow Paid a Fine For Assault This Morning—Razor Artist "Quiet- ed" by Officer Mason.

Charles Blow, wanted here since January 3 to answer to a charge of assault and battery preferred by Michael Connors, voluntarily put in an appearance at the city hall this morning and was promptly brought before Judge Piffle. After listening to his plea of guilty the court pressed him for an explanation of his sudden disappearance but he was unable to offer any acceptable excuse for running away from justice. Upon payment of a fine and costs amounting to $7.50 he was allowed to go his way.
Drew Razor on Officer.
One of the four prisoners brought into court this morning to answer drunkenness charges was one Joe Pennell, a burly stranger who was seen flourishing a razor in the vicinity of Smith's hotel and the railroad depots while in a state of intoxication last evening. He started to pull the weapon on Officer Mason last night but the latter landed on Mr. Pennell's nose with such telling effect that after turning a complete somersault the razor artist found himself stretched out in the road. He was sent to the county jail for ten days. Sentence was suspended in the case of Mike Reimay in order to permit him to hot-foot it out of town. Christ Olson went to the county jail for five days in lieu of the payment of a fine of $2 and costs. Haecon Hermanson cheerfully paid $2 and costs.
Hutton Boy's Trial Set.
Eighteen year old Willie Hutton, charged with breaking into Walter Morrison's boat house, appeared in court again this morning. Information was filed against the prisoner by the district attorney. He pleaded "not guilty" and his trial was set for August 9.

When Mr. Newed started out this morning he slammed the door so hard he broke the lock."

Police Court.—Patrick Dougherty came before the court and was fined $2 and costs for drunkenness. Not having the money to pay, he was committed to jail until he could raise the money. Nathan Hannan was called upon to answer for assault and battery, but as he could not reply satisfactorily to the charge, the court adjudged him a fine of $10 and costs. The basis of the luxury was whisky.

Thrashing In Johnston.—We learn from A. M. Carter that the labor of thrashing winter wheat and barley has commenced in Johnston. While the yield of wheat is good, barley is an unusually heavy crop. Harvesting of spring wheat will commence this week but the farmers in that vicinity will not get their sleeves fairly rolled up until next week and the week after. The prospect is most cheering.

"DANDROCIDE"

is a scalp medicine, not merely a hair beautifier. It rids the scalp of that dangerous hair enemy, dandruff, and allows nature to serve its purpose unhampered. Your own specialist will endorse the properties in "Dandrocide."

The many hair tonics fool you into softening the hair, but shamefully neglect the great evil, dandruff.

You won't get rid of dandruff, until you use "Dandrocide." It is lasting in its benefits, and is best in its results when economically applied. One bottle will heal the scalp, and start a rejuvenating growth of hair.

TRUST BUSTING

The most popular man in the hearts of the American people today is President Roosevelt.

Why? Because he stands for the "square deal" to the common people as well as to the corporations.

He takes the side of the people who need things and against the combinations that would take advantage of their needs, to extort undue gains.

These are days when lots of men find it to their profit to combine and raise prices.

In Dentistry, Dr. Richards of Janesville holds aloof from all local combines and maintains his prices on a living, reasonable basis.

One lady recently saved $17 on her dental bill by selecting him to do her Dental work.

He does the BEST of work. His prices won't jar you.

ENTIRELY NEW PROGRAM IN '08

NOT ONE RETURN ENGAGEMENT FOR CHAUTAUQUA TALENT.

TILLMAN AND JOHN MITCHELL

One or Both, or Men of Similar Prominence Can Be Brought to Janesville Next Season.

"All talent appearing on the 1908 Chautauqua program will be new to Janesville audiences," said Secretary Reeder when interviewed today. "All contracts with the Chautauqua Managers' Association have expired and all lecturers, entertainers and musical organizations that are to be booked for next season will be strangers in this city. We expect to not only give a new program but a better one. It is possible that we will secure both Senator Ben Tillman and John Mitchell, head of the American Federation of Miners. I understand both can be brought here. However, we may take only one of the two but it is certain that we will have two or more speakers of fame and prominence equal to either of those. We will get the Virginia Glee club here. That is a large company of musicians, excellent as a chorus and as an orchestra. There will be some sessions set apart for the amusement and instruction of children and I believe the executive committee is considering the advisability of having morning Bible classes."

What A. E. Matheson Says.
A. E. Matheson of the executive committee was apprised of the fact that both Tillman and Mitchell could be secured and asked if there would be any objection to either. He replied that the committee would probably favor both. "Neither discusses a local political issue that would make the Chautauqua Association appear as sponsor for some party," he continued. "The only men we have are those who talk politics to boost themselves."

"You'll not have Sunday again, will you?" was asked. "No," was answered. "We had an understanding with him last year concerning portions of his sermon, and he evidently didn't consider that as binding this year."

The Dixies' New Troupe.
Ferguson's Dixie Jubilee Singers who were here both in 1905 and 1906 are not the same troupe who come to the Chautauqua Friday and remain through Sunday.

The personnel is not only new but there are seven instead of five in the company. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Buckner are the only members of the old organization remaining in the new. The Dixies give short concerts Friday, Saturday and Sunday and furnish a full concert Friday afternoon. They sing not only the old plantation melodies but popular songs, camp meeting anthems and sacred music.

Tomorrow a Big Day.
Tomorrow will be a big day at the Assembly. In the afternoon Dr. H. W. Sears, known to the country over as Taffy Sears, the disciple of geniality, will give his noted lecture on "More Taffy and Less Epitaphy."

In the evening John R. Ratto, who scored one of the best hits of last year, will give a program of impersonations. He is an artist and never makes his character roles grotesque, relying for humor on natural and not exaggerated personages. Three concerts will be rendered by the Chicago Ladies' Quartette. The program for tomorrow follows:

10:00 A. M. (For Women Only).
Popular Nursing, Anna Amacker.
2:00 P. M. Concert.
Chicago Ladies' Quartette.
2:30 P. M. Lecture—"More Taffy and Less Epitaphy"—Dr. H. W. Sears.
4:15 P. M. Concert.

8:30 P. M. Entertainment—"Impersonations"—John R. Ratto.

Domestic Science Continued.
Miss Anna Amacker continued her domestic science course this morning. She baked bread on the stage and lectured on that topic. Fully two hundred women were present. Tomorrow she talks to women only.

H. V. Adams, the platform manager, occupied the stage this afternoon lecturing on "Grapes of Gold." A good audience was present.

This evening there will be a concert at half past seven and an entertainment of magic by Edwin Brush at eight o'clock. A good attendance is anticipated.

LAND EXPERT WILL BE HERE TONIGHT

Will be at W. J. Litts & Co.'s Office Tonight and Talk of Canada Lands.

Mr. Covell, one of the officials of the Canadian Pacific Irrigation Colonization Company, will arrive in Janesville today for the purpose of meeting those interested in the splendid lands of Southern Alberta, Canada. He will spend the evening at the office of W. J. Litts & Co., corner of Milwaukee and River streets, and will explain in detail the wonderful advantages of this fertile district. Southern Alberta offers one of the few opportunities for the farmer or investor of today to secure land at a merely nominal price in a region where everything seems made-to-order for the comfort and prosperity of the settler.

Mr. Covell is one of the best posted men of the Northwest on the subject of farming and grazing lands and the purpose of his visit here is to explain in detail the conditions existing in Southern Alberta to the many prospective investors and settlers who have become interested through the agency of W. J. Litts & Co. He will talk interestingly of these lands and will answer any questions that may arise.

Everyone who would like to hear of this new country is invited to meet Mr. Covell at the Litts office this evening, and the time will be more than well spent.

The next excursion to Southern Alberta will be conducted by W. J. Litts & Company, Tuesday, August 6th. Full particulars can be obtained by calling or addressing the office.

HUNTINGTON DIES; SON TRIES SUICIDE

TRAGEDY AT VERSAILLES HAS GROWN MORE SHOCKING.

GLOOM OVER THE CITY

Henry, Who Shot Brothers and Sisters, Attempts to Strangle Himself in His Jail Cell.

Versailles, July 30.—The death of the aged American soldier himself and an attempt at self-destruction on the part of his son Henry, who shot his sisters and brothers on Sunday in the last hours of his dying father, imparted additional sadness Monday to the shocking tragedy in the home of Maj. Henry A. Huntington, which has caused a sensation in the American colony and diplomatic circles of France.

Maj. Huntington died Monday evening shortly after the news was given out of his son Henry's unsuccessful attempt at suicide, but the father was spared the anguish of knowledge both of this incident and of the terrible crime which shattered his household, as he was unconscious to the end.

The prostrated widow, the daughter Edith, and the son Douglas, whose slight wounds permitted them to pay the last honors to the dying man, were present in the chamber when the end came.

Henry Attempts Suicide. According to the police, Henry attempted suicide in his cell with a silk handkerchief, which he tied round his neck and fastened to the bars, seeking to strangle himself slowly by means of a tourniquet. The jailer, who had been instructed to watch the prisoner closely, detected the act in time to prevent serious results.

The swift sequence of tragic incidents in the Huntington family, which is one of the best known here, has cast a gloom over Versailles. Though plunged in grief at the death of the head of the household, the mother and children have had time to interpret Henry's effort at self-destruction as additional evidence of the mental irresponsibility which they say he has manifested for a long time in certain directions.

Insanity or Remorse? His wife, however, declares that it was the natural result of remorse at the dreadful acts which he committed in a sudden outburst of uncontrollable fury at the interference of his brothers, when he hurried to the bedside of his dying father.

The French judicial authorities feel that searching probes alone will bring out the exact happenings in the Huntington villa which antedated the shooting.

On the subject of just what occurred on the night of the tragedy, there is a conflict between the story of the Huntington family and the statement Henry's wife says he made to her, but both agree that the man was carried away by passion which unbalanced his mind.

Alonso Likely to Die. The condition of Alonso, who was shot in the head, and Elizabeth, who was shot in the region of the heart, is serious. Alonso it is believed will die. They are being treated in their home. Edith, who was wounded in the arm, and Douglas, whose head was grazed by a bullet, are not seriously hurt.

No direct message from the prisoner has come from the jail, except a letter sent to the manager of the hotel where his wife is staying, praying him to send information as to the condition of the members of his family.

"I beseech you," the prisoner wrote, "in the name of humanity send me news of my wife and father and those I have wounded in the madness of my despair."

BOOTH PREPARES FOR DEATH.

Salvation Army Chief Already Has Selected His Successor.

London, July 30.—Gen. William Booth, the head of the Salvation Army, who is engaged in a motor tour of Great Britain, announced at Blackburn that the same electric flash that carried the news of his death would publish the name of the new general for the army.

It was learned that Gen. Booth has left minute directions for the future administration of the army in a sealed envelope, with his solicitors. No one else knows who his successor will be, but it is believed that it will be Bramwell Booth, with Commissioner Howard and Commissioner Booth-Tucker as alternates in case of Bramwell Booth's death, and that the army will continue under the guidance of one man, and not of a committee or a board of directors.

Detroit Italian Stabbed.

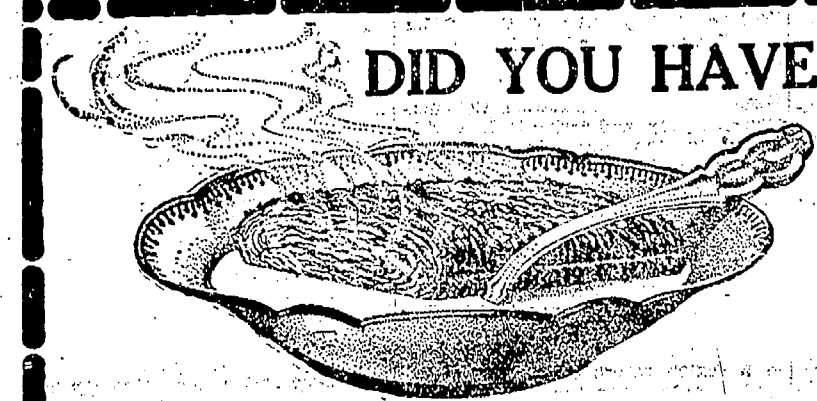

Detroit, Mich., July 30.—Tony Leto, aged 25, was found Monday night lying in front of his home shockingly mutilated and with stab wounds in his abdomen, chest and thigh and behind his ear. The police arrested a young Italian whose hands were covered with blood. Leto refuses to name his assailant and there are rumors that the affair was a "black hand" outrage.

MISS MATTHEWS WAS JILTED.

Probable Reason for Her Suicide at Colorado Springs.

Colorado Springs, Col., July 30.—Sheriff Grimes had a lengthy conversation with Ames Richard Rumbach, who was frequently seen with Miss Laura Matthews, who was found dead Monday. He had been with her during the day previous to her death. Mr. Rumbach convinced the sheriff, through letters and other evidence, that he was a close friend of Miss Matthews, and he told the sheriff that he had entertained fears ever since last Wednesday that she would make away with herself.

He declared that the young woman had often told him she had been engaged to C. A. Coey, a wealthy automobile dealer of Chicago, and that he had abandoned her. Miss Green, the nurse who accompanied Miss Matthews from the east, also declared that Coey had broken his promise to marry the girl, and she threatens to wreak vengeance upon him for her dead friend.

The coroner announced that he would hold an inquest Tuesday in an effort to determine whether Miss Matthews' death was really suicide.

Whipped Because He Talked. Guthrie, Ky., July 30.—John Lockert was severely whipped by unknown persons near here late Sunday night with switches until his flesh was gashed and a portion of his clothing cut into it. He is in a precarious condition. The men told Lockert that he had done a little too much talking last year about the time the tobacco plant beds were scraped and that they had come for a settlement.

Captain of Frontenac Commended.

Auburn, N. Y., July 30.—Coroner O'Neill late Monday completed his investigation into the burning of the steamer Frontenac on Cayuga lake Saturday, and he finds that no blame is to be attached to Capt. M. P. Brown, of the ill-fated boat or any of the crew. He commends the captain and crew for their heroic work in doing all in their power to save the passengers. The investigation did not develop the origin of the fire.

French Strikers Capture General.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE.

By CHARLES KLEIN.

A Story of American Life Novelized From the Play by ARTHUR HORNBLLOW.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY C. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY.

"Well, we'll let that go. But how about this?" He turned back a few pages and read: "John Broderick had loved when a young man a girl who lived in Vermont, but circumstances separated them." He stopped and stared at Shirley a moment, and then he said: "I loved a girl when I was a lad and she came from Vermont, and circumstances separated us. That isn't coincidence, for presently you make John Broderick marry a young woman who had money. I married a girl with money."

"Lots of men marry for money," remarked Shirley.

"I said with money, not for money," retorted Ryder. Then, turning to the book, he said: "Now, this is what I can't understand, for no one could have told you this but I myself. Listen. He read aloud: 'With all his physical bravery and personal courage, John Broderick was intensely afraid of death. It was on his mind constantly. Who told you that?' He demanded somewhat roughly. 'I swear I've never mentioned it to a living soul.'"

"Most men who amass money are afraid of death," replied Shirley with outward composure, "for death is about the only thing that can separate them from their money."

Ryder laughed, but it was a hollow, mocking laugh, neither sincere nor hearty. It was a laugh such as the devil may have given when driven out of heaven.

"You're quite a character!" He laughed again, and Shirley, catching the infection, laughed too.

"It's me and it isn't me," went on Ryder, flourishing the book. "This fellow Broderick is all right; he's successful and he's great, but I don't like his finish."

"It's logical," ventured Shirley.

"It's cruel," insisted Ryder.

"So is the man who reverses the divine law and hates his neighbor instead of loving him," retorted Shirley. She spoke more boldly, beginning to feel more sure of her ground, and it amused her to fence in this way with the man of millions. So far, she thought, he had not got the best of her. She was fast becoming used to him, and her first feeling of intimidation was passing away.

"Um!" grunted Ryder. "You're a curious girl. Upon my word you interest me!" He took the mass of papers lying at his elbow and pushed them over to her. "Here," he said, "I want you to make as clever a book out of this chaos as you did out of your own imagination."

Shirley turned the papers over carefully.

"So you think your life is a good example to follow?" she asked, with a tinge of irony.

"Isn't it?" he demanded.

The girl looked him square in the face.

"Suppose," she said, "we all wanted to follow it; suppose we all wanted to be the richest, the most powerful personages in the world?"

"Well, what then?" he demanded.

"I think it would postpone the era of the brotherhood of man indefinitely, don't you?"

"I never thought of it from that point of view," admitted the millionaire.

"Really," he added, "you're an extraordinary girl. Why, you can't be more than twenty or so."

"I'm twenty-four or so," smiled Shirley.

Ryder's face expanded in a broad smile. He admired this girl's pluck and ready wit. He grew more amiable and tried to gain her confidence. In a coaxing tone he said:

"Come, where did you get those details? Take me into your confidence."

"I have taken you into my confidence," laughed Shirley, pointing at her book. "It cost you $1.50." "Famine

Why so weak?"

Kidney Troubles May be Sapping Your Life Away. Janesville.

People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Here is Janesville testimony to prove it.

Mrs. Joseph Gower of 6 Park Ave., Janesville, Wis., says:

"Dull aching and pain in the loins often extended around to my sides and there seemed to be no relief from the misery it brought me. Sometimes I was actually unfit for work. I used liniments and hot applications and tried various remedies but all the time I was growing worse. Finally I saw Doan's Kidney Pills recommended in our papers and got a box at the People's Drug Co. They gave me some relief almost instantly and in a few days the backache and misery left me. I gained and since then have had no return of the trouble."

over the papers he had put before her, she said presently, "I don't know about this."

"You don't think my life would make good reading?" he asked, with some asperity.

"It might," she replied slowly, as if unwilling to commit herself as to its commercial or literary value. Then she said frankly: "To tell you the honest truth, I don't consider mere genius in money making is sufficient provocation for rushing into print. You see, unless you come to a bad end, it would have no moral."

Ignoring the not very flattering insinuation contained in this last speech, the publisher continued to urge her:

"You can name your own price if you will do the work," he said. "Two, three or even five thousand dollars. It's only a few months' work."

"Five thousand dollars?" echoed Shirley. "That's a lot of money."

Smiling, she added: "It appeals to my commercial sense. But I'm afraid the subject does not arouse my enthusiasm from an artistic standpoint."

Ryder smiled amused at the idea of any one hesitating to make $5,000. "He knew that writers do not run across such opportunities every day."

"Upon my word," he said, "I don't know why I'm so anxious to get you to do the work. I suppose it's because you don't want to. You remind me of my son. Ah, he's a problem!"

Shirley started involuntarily when Ryder mentioned his son. But he did not notice it.

"Why, is he wild?" she asked, as if only mildly interested.

"Oh, no. I wish he were," said Ryder. "Fallen in love with the wrong woman, I suppose," she said.

"Something of the sort. How did you guess?" asked Ryder, surprised.

Shirley coughed to meet her embarrassment and replied indifferently:

"So many boys do that. Besides," she added, with a mischievous twinkle in her eyes, "I can hardly imagine that any woman would be the right one unless you selected her yourself."

Ryder made no answer. He folded his arms and gazed at her. Who was this woman who knew him so well, who could read his inmost thoughts, who never made a mistake? After a silence he said:

"Do you know you say the strangest things?"

"Truth is strange," replied Shirley cheerfully. "I don't suppose you hear it very often."

"Not in that form," admitted Ryder. Shirley had taken on to her lap some of the letters he had passed her and was perusing them one after another.

"All these letters from Washington consulting you on politics and finance—they won't interest the world."

"My secretary picked them out," explained Ryder. "Your artistic sense will tell you what to use."

"Does your son still love this girl? I mean the one you object to," inquired Shirley as she went on sorting the papers.

"Oh, no, he does not care for her any more," answered Ryder hastily.

"Yes, he does. He still loves her," said Shirley positively.

"How do you know?" asked Ryder, amazed.

"From the way you say he doesn't," retorted Shirley.

Ryder gave his caller a look in which admiration was mingled with astonishment.

"You are right again," he said. "The idiot does love the girl."

"Bless his heart!" said Shirley to herself. "Aloud she said: 'I hope they'll both outwit you.'"

Ryder laughed in spite of himself. This young woman certainly interested him more than any other he had ever known.

"I don't think I ever met any one in my life quite like you," he said.

"What's the objection to the girl?" demanded Shirley.

"Every objection. I don't want her in my family."

"Anything against her character?"

To better conceal the keen interest she took in the personal turn the conversation had taken, Shirley pretended to be more busy than ever with the papers.

"Yes—that is, no—not that I know of," replied Ryder. "But because a woman has a good character, that doesn't necessarily make her a desirable match, does it?"

"It's a point in her favor, isn't it?"

"Yes, but—Lie hesitated as if uncertain what to say.

"You know men well, don't you, Mr. Ryder?"

"I've met enough to know them pretty well," he replied.

"Why don't you study women for a change?" she asked. "That would enable you to understand a great many things that I don't think are quite clear to you now."

Ryder laughed good humoredly. It was decidedly a novel suggestion to have some one lecturing him.

"I'm studying you," he said, "but I don't seem to make much headway. A woman like you whose mind isn't spoiled by the amusement habit has great possibilities—great possibilities. Do you know you're the first woman I ever took into my confidence—I mean at sight?" Again he fixed her with that keen glance which he read men. He continued: "I'm acting on sentiment—something I rarely do, but I can't help it. I like you, upon my soul I do, and I'm going to introduce you to my wife—my son."

He took the telephone from his desk as if he were going to use it.

"What a commander in chief you would have made—how natural it is for you to command!" exclaimed Shirley in a burst of admiration that was half real, half mocking. "I suppose you always tell people what they are to do and how they are to do it. You are a born general. You know I've often thought that Napoleon and Caesar and Alexander must have been great domestic leaders as well as imperial rulers. I'm sure of it now."

Ryder listened to her in amazement. He was not quite sure if she were making fun of him or not.

"Well, of all," he began, then interrupting himself he said amiably, "Won't you do me the honor to meet my family?"

Shirley smiled sweetly and bowed.

"Thank you, Mr. Ryder, I will."

She rose from her seat and leaned over the manuscripts to conceal the satisfaction this promise of an introduction to the family circle gave her. She was quick to see that it meant more visits to the house and other and perhaps better opportunities to find the objects of her search. Ryder lifted the receiver of his telephone and talked to his secretary in another room, while Shirley, who was still standing, continued examining the papers and letters.

"Is that you, Bagley? What's that? General Dodge? Get rid of him. I can't see him today. Tell him to come tomorrow. What's that? My son wants to see me? Tell him to come to the phone."

At that instant Shirley gave a little cry, which in vain she tried to suppress. Ryder looked up.

"What's the matter?" he demanded, startled.

"Nothing, nothing," she replied in a hoarse whisper. "I pricked myself with a pin. Don't mind me."

She had just come across her father's missing letters, which had got mixed up, evidently without Ryder's knowledge, in the mass of papers he had handed her. Prepared as she was to find the letters somewhere in the house, she never dreamed that fate would put them so easily and so quickly into her hands; the suddenness of their appearance and the sight of her father's familiar signature affected her almost like a shock. Now she had them, she must not let them go again; yet how could she keep them unobserved? Could she conceal them? Would he miss them? She tried to slip them in her bosom while Ryder was busy at the phone, but he suddenly glanced in her direction and caught her eye. She still held the letters in her hand, which shook from nervousness, but he noticed nothing and went on speaking through the phone:

"Hello, Jefferson, boy! You want to see me. Can you wait till I'm through? I've got a lady here. Going away? Nonsense! Determined, eh? Well, I can't keep you here if you've made up your mind. You want to say goodbye. Come up in about five minutes, and I'll introduce you to a very interesting person."

He laughed and hung up the receiver. Shirley was all unstrung, trying to overcome the emotion which her discovery had caused her, and in a strangely altered voice, the result of the nervous strain she was under, she said:

"You want me to come here?"

She looked up from the letters she was reading across to Ryder, who was standing watching her on the other side of the desk. He caught her glance and, leaning over to take some manuscript, he said:

"Yes, I don't want these papers to get lost."

His eye suddenly rested on the letters she was holding. He stopped short, and reaching forward he tried to snatch them from her.

"What have you got there?" he exclaimed.

He took the letters, and she made no resistance. It would be folly to force the issue now, she thought. Another opportunity would present itself. Ryder locked the letters up very carefully in the drawer on the left-hand side of his desk, muttering to himself rather than speaking to Shirley:

"How on earth did they get among my other papers?"

"From Judge Rossmore, were they not?" said Shirley boldly.

"How did you know it was Judge Rossmore?" demanded Ryder suspiciously. "I didn't know that his name had been mentioned."

"I saw his signature," she said simply. Then she added, "He's the father of the girl you don't like, isn't he?"

"Yes, he's the—"

A cloud came over the financier's face. His eyes darkened, his jaws snapped, and he clenched his fist.

"How you must hate him!" said Shirley, who observed the change.

"Not at all," replied Ryder, recovering his self-possession and suavity of manner. "I disagree with his politics and his methods, but I know very little about him except that he is about to be removed from office."

"About to be?" echoed Shirley. "So his fate is decided even before he is tried?"

The girl laughed bitterly.

"Yes," she went on, "some of the newspapers are beginning to think he is innocent of the things of which he is accused."

"Do they?" said Ryder indifferently.

"Yes," she persisted, "most people are on his side."

She planted her elbows on the desk in front of her, and looking him square in the face she asked him point blank:

"Whose side are you on—really and truly?"

Ryder winced. What right had this woman, a stranger both to Judge Rossmore and himself, to come here and catechize him? He restrained his impatience with difficulty as he replied:

"Whose side am I on? Oh, I don't know that I give it much thought. I—"

"Do you think this man deserves to be punished?" she demanded.

ATTACK MADE ON LEOPOLD

CONGO GOVERNMENT SCORED IN THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

Lord Monkswell and Archbishop of Canterbury Use Strong Language—England Is Blamed.

London, July 30.—"The system of government in the Congo Independent state is one of unrestrained tyranny, enforced by the lash and the bullet, by cruelty and by murder." These words were spoken by Lord Monkswell, who raised the Congo question in the house of lords Monday and moved for the papers.

Continuing, Lord Monkswell said the Congo government was a powerful engine of greed which impudently and insolently violated the limitations and restrictions under which its rights over this territory had been granted. The speaker quoted authorities to support his statements, and added that an especial responsibility attached to Great Britain because, except for her determined action, the king of Portugal and not the king of the Belgians would at this moment have been the ruler of the Congo.

The archbishop of Canterbury declared that the Congo was one of the most disheartening and humiliating of contemporary questions. He said it was a ghastly irony to read to-day the words of the address presented to King Leopold by the city of London in 1884, congratulating his majesty upon his "bloodless victory." He declared the British government should be reminded of the sense of responsibility of all Englishmen in this matter.

A general debate on the Congo question followed, and a number of bishops were among the speakers. Lord Fitzmaurice, under secretary for foreign affairs, speaking for the government, said they were not blind to the fact that this matter was surrounded with grave difficulties. The government had asked the Congo state, he said, not to disregard the experiences of previous governments of native states, and had instanced the early history of British East India. The present system, the speaker said, was certain to have evil consequences. Lord Fitzmaurice admitted that the house of lords had a right to ask what progress had been made, but he said it was an international question, and if the house took any sudden, rash action it would run the risk of injuring the cause it had at heart.

At the conclusion of Lord Fitzmaurice's address Lord Monkswell withdrew his motion.

HOW TRAINS ARE "HELD UP."

Wild Animals and Insects, as Well as Men, Do the Work.

The achievements of those robbers and desperadoes who "hold up" or wreck railway trains are occasionally paralleled by wild animals.

In Siberia, for instance, it has happened on at least one occasion that a bear has jumped on to the locomotive of a train and attacked the driver and guard. In one case of this kind, bruin met with so vigorous a rebuff that he fell back on to the line and was caught by the wheels, with fatal results.

In Canada it has more than once been found that the passage of a train has been disputed by a moose deer. The moose always got the worst of the encounter.

Ostriches often cause a stoppage of trains in South Africa. They stick their heads in the sand ballasting of the tracks, and, as they are too valuable to kill, the train is stopped till they are captured or driven back to the farm from which they may have escaped.

Even insects may bring trains to a standstill. The white ant, or termite, accomplishes this feat by destroying the sleepers on which the rails rest.

That fish should interfere with trains, would seem impossible, but they do so in India by being sucked into the apparatus for watering locomotives at country stations. And once a railway trolley car passing through flooded country was stopped, a large fish becoming jammed in one of the wheels.

Even weeds may "hold up" a train, as in Ecuador, where the vegetation along the track grows so rapidly that if it were not regularly kept down traffic would be impossible.

Owl Caught by Locomotive.

While an early morning express from Glasgow to Aberdeen, Scotland, was passing Alloa Junction about five a. m., a barn owl flew across the track and was caught by the locomotive. Miles farther on, when the train stopped, the bird was found clinging in its death grip to the handrail of the smoke-box. The owl has been skinned and is now carried as a mascot by the engine-driver.

The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery"—was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its composition.

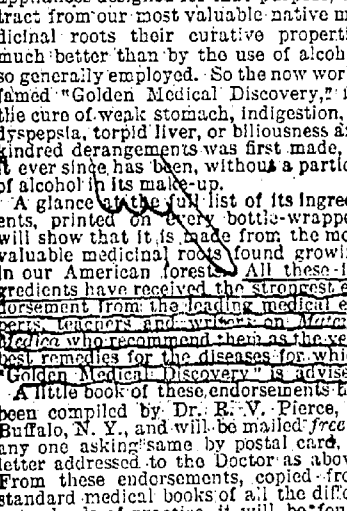

A glance at the list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. And these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical experts, doctors and writers on medicine.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned ailments, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is sure to do you good. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

BIG BALL SALARIES.

Experts Say the Period of Pay Inflation Is Over.

LAJOIE, CHANCE, MCGRAW, ETC.

Chicago National Chief Is Best Paid Player-Manager in Game-McGraw Earns More Than Any Other Manager—Gets Salary and Percentage.

Experts in baseball are predicting that within a few years the high salaries of the past will be a thing of the past. Even now the salaries are gradually being squeezed down by owners and managers, and little is heard of the amounts paid to players on the major league teams.

The magnates found out that it was poor business policy to let the big salaries be noised about, for every player immediately imagined that he was entitled to the top notch remuneration.

But there are still in the game some players who are earning enough money to keep their heads well above water. One of these is the great Napoleon Lajoie of the Cleveland American League team. Two years ago Lajoie was the highest paid active player, and he was getting $30,000 for a season of seven months. Now his salary is in the neighborhood of $7,000, though it is not unlikely that there may be an extra thousand or so given to Lajoie for assuming the arduous duties of manager besides those of second baseman.

It is interesting to compare Lajoie's present salary with the first salary that was ever paid him for playing professional ball. His first contract was with the Pull River club, then managed by Charles Marston, and was written on the back of a common envelope and called for the sum of $100 a month, making something like $500 for the season.

Christy Mathewson, the pitcher of the New York Nationals, is probably the highest paid pitcher at present playing baseball. His salary is about $7,000.

Mathewson was on the Bucknell college varsity team. He needed money in 1890 and was persuaded to play some games with the Honesdale (Pa.)

JOHN J. MCGRAW, BEST PAID BALL MANAGER.

club. After that he was tried at several other places, making a hit with the Norfolk (Va.) team. That club, however, broke up in July, 1900, and the owners looked around for a chance to sell Mathewson.

It was about that time that the New York newspaper writers heard of him and induced Mathewson to come to New York. The Giants tried him out, and in 1901 he was signed by John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, for two years at a salary of $4,000 and was the pitching marvel of the year. Since then Mathewson has pitched the Giants to victory very often, his most notable games being those of the world's championship series in 1905.

Another high paid baseball pitcher is Jack Chesbro of the New York American League team. Two years ago Chesbro was getting a salary of $7,000, but this season his pay is about $5,000. Chesbro is very conscientious, and thereby hangs a tale. Last spring Chesbro was notified by Manager Clark Griffith of the Highlanders to report for training.

But Chesbro sent word that his failure to make good in the box last year had nearly discouraged him and that he did not believe he was able to pitch good ball any longer. Griffith tried to make him alter his decision, but Chesbro started to work in the timber business at Worcester, Mass., his home town. Griffith attempted to get along without Chesbro, but his pitching staff was so weakened that he had to call on "Happy Jack" to return to work. Chesbro in the meantime had been unable to stay from baseball and was practicing regularly.

The highest paid baseball player-manager is Frank Chance, captain of the Chicago National league team. Chance is a first baseman of sterling quality and besides is noted for his executive ability as manager. Many guesses have been made at Chance's exact salary, but it is usually given as $10,000 for the season.

John J. McGraw is probably the highest paid manager in the game. He has never allowed the amount of his salary to become public, but persons in close touch with the New York management have set his yearly salary at $11,000. Besides his salary McGraw has an extra share of income from an interest which he holds in the club.

Harry Howell, St. Louis American, is reported as suffering from a lame pitching arm.

Grand Circuit Meet at Cleveland. Cleveland, O., July 30.—The track at Cleveland never looked better than it did today at the opening of the Grand Circuit race meeting under the auspices of the Cleveland Driving Park company. All signs point to one of the best meetings in the history of the club. The meeting is to last four days, instead of five as in previous years. Four races are scheduled daily for three days, while on Thursday five races are carded.

FUNDS FOR DEFENSE OF FLORENCE DUGAN

Subscription Paper Circulated in Business District Has Received Many Signatures.

Funds for the defense of Florence Dugan, the young woman who is held at the county jail on the charge of shooting George Schumaker with intent to kill, are being collected in the business district and a subscription paper which was circulated yesterday received many signatures. Those behind the movement are anxious to have the woman's case presented by the best legal talent available and secure for her the minimum punishment, if not absolute acquittal. The man's condition continues to puzzle those who are looking after him. He was able to sit up for six hours, altogether, last Friday and experienced feeling in his lower limbs to a greater degree than heretofore. Yet it is not claimed that he is much, if any, better. To quiet the pain it is necessary to keep him under the influence of morphine most of the time.

To Be Examined Monday. The prisoner again appeared in municipal court this morning and her examination was adjourned until Monday with the understanding that if the condition of Schumaker shall have shown no material change at that time, the State will go on with the procedure. However, should the young woman be held for trial on the charge of assault with intent to kill, as she undoubtedly will be, and should Schumaker die before the trial commences, the charge will immediately be dismissed and a new one afflicting murder, substituted.

Not Disposed to Be Harsh. "If Schumaker can get well, there is no disposition on the part of the State to keep the young woman in jail awaiting trial on the assault charge," said District Attorney J. L. Fisher this morning.

Stock raising is the most profitable and satisfactory branch of farming. The IDEAL grazing and stock region in Southern Alberta, Canada. Climate and weather conditions are so favorable that stock is kept on the range all winter and no expensive stables are needed—shed feeding is all that is necessary.

The snowfall is much lighter than in Wisconsin, and the grasses furnish feed for the stock all winter. Alfalfa, the best all-round forage plant, grows thickly and luxuriantly year in and year out. Once rooted, it lasts a lifetime, and you may harvest two or three crops a year. Good Alfalfa land, under irrigation, you can buy for $18.00 to $25.00 per acre.

But stock raising is far from being the only profitable purpose to which this fertile land may be put. The most desirable conditions are to be found in Southern Alberta for farming of all

2 Cylinder 22-26 H. P., Complete With 5 Lamps, Storage Battery, Ironed for Top, Price $1250.

This Popular Car Driven by Hokanson Outclassed Several Cars Costing Twice As Much As the Buick.

Hokanson Auto Co. Made Perfect Score With Two Cylinder Buick Car in Milwaukee-Madison Reliability Run.

The Madison car was awarded first place in the contest; making the run with seals intact and without a demerit mark. The perfect score of the Buick in this contest is the highest honor and testimonial that could be awarded. It means that the Buick is a perfect car—absolutely reliable in every part of its mechanism.

Another point—the Buick possesses the speed. It passed all other cars, taking the lead ten miles out of Madison, and finished the run on the very second of time.

The word "Buick" means "Perfection." The name stands for the highest type of a motor car. It signifies the proper model, the highest grade of workmanship and material, accurate, honest and reliable construction. It is the word that guarantees in the highest sense of the term, reliability, durability, dependability, speed, control, safety and comfort.

The exhibition of the Hokanson's Buick car in the contest is remarkable. The car was first run into Milwaukee to start in the race. It made the run from Milwaukee to Madison and return and then sent back to Madison, thus completing two round trips. The other cars made but one round trip. In other words, the Buick covered twice the distance in perfect condition. The seals affixed to the car in Milwaukee were intact when the car returned to Madison after the contest. The "seal" feature means that before the race every part of the Buick car was sealed so as to prevent repairs or adjustments during the contest. Not a seal was broken on the Buick car, because no repair or adjustments were necessary.

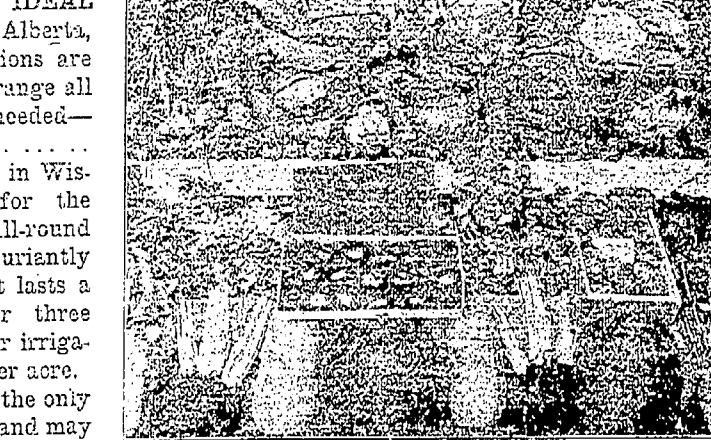

This is not the first exhibition of faultless operation of the Buick car. In fact, it has given demonstrations of this kind ever since the machine was put on the market. And we have daily proven to countless patrons its superiority. Every Buick car has made good.

The car has been and is now the popular automobile, unsurpassed and incomparable.

Buick hill climbing ability is unsurpassed. It will take you up Court St. hill in this city on the high speed as easy as if you were running on level road. If you doubt this statement call us up and we will gladly come here and show you how easy it's done. The result of our demonstration in Madison are 45 satisfied BUICK owners. Remember, we have duplicates of this Buick car on hand for immediate delivery.

"I have been vitally interested in the crops of the Northwest States for the past 15 years and never in all of my experience have I seen such crops anywhere in any country as we have here in Alberta at the present time. Conditions could not possibly have been better had they been made to order. The winter wheat crop is especially fine and promising. This does not apply to any one district in Alberta but to the entire area."
